

CLM 1678

New Screen Magazine

No. 77. Hubbell

The beaver is an animal that man would do well to study. He is a perfect marvel of industry, swimming and diving through the water with skillful ease, and working skillfully and swiftly building his dam. His chief food is the bark of trees and bushes which he stores for the winter.

Frederick Keating of the Society of American Magicians, demonstrates with a few trick games, how easy the average person can be fooled.

The magazine contains a humorous shot about the "baccilus baseballlicus," otherwise the baseball fever, which only subsides when the World Series is ended.

The Congressional Library at Washington is the most magnificent and useful one in the world, containing one hundred fifty-five miles of shelves and three million volumes. There is a wonderful room for the blind and an army of attendants constantly on hand.

The magazine closes with a "Mickey Sez" cartoon by Dick Kennedy.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress